British Press Warns Public Not to Expect Too Much.

Germans and French Both Claim Gains In Champagne.

London, March 1.—The flags of Great Britain and France are now flying at the entrance to the Dardanelles over the Turkish forts, reduced by the sea power of the allies.

While it would appear to be a fact that the allied fleet has reached Chanak, 15 miles from the Mediterranean entrance to the straits, the British press warms the public not to expect the immediate fall of Constantinople. Nevertheless, the operations of the British and French warships against the set defences of Constantinople are creating a tremendous stir in the near east. Brouss, in Asiatic Turkey, has been selected by the Turks as their new capital, in case it becomes necessary to evacuate Constantinople. The Germans in Turkey, it is declared, wanted the Turks to move to Adrianople, in European Turkey, but the Turks would have noone of this and started shipping their archives to Broussa.
